METHOD FOR DETERMINING ADDITIONAL FUEL CONSUMPTION IN A MOTOR VEHICLE AND METHOD FOR DISPLAYING ADDITIONAL FUEL CONSUMPTION

FINAL OFFICE ACTION

This action is in response to the Applicant's amendment dated Sep. 02, 2009.

CLAIMS

OBJECTIONS

In view of the Applicant's amendment, the objection to claim 6 as set forth in the previous office action of June 03, 2009 has been overcome.

35 U.S.C. § 112

In view of the Applicant's amendment, the rejection of claim 5 under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as set forth in said previous office action has been overcome.

35 U.S.C. § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-3 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Rogers (5,397,991).

Rogers suggests a method for determining the fuel consumption of an electrical consumer in a motor vehicle with an internal combustion engine, supplied by a generator which is driven by the internal combustion engine, comprising increasing and decreasing the current input to the alternator wherein the current input to the alternator is due to the demand of an electrical consumer (for example, see col. 5, lines 24-31 and 60-68).

Rogers fails to explicitly set forth the determining of at least one current value of the generator mechanical power input upon energization of the electrical consumer as claimed.

However, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art armed with said teaching to determine a current value of the generator mechanical power input.

The motivation being that since Rogers sets forth the increasing and decreasing of the input current to the alternator the current must be monitored (ie. determined) to know if the current has been, in fact, increased or decreased.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 4, 6, and 7 have been found to be allowable over the prior art.

Response To Arguments

The Applicant's remarks have been considered. The Applicant states that Rogers does not describe or suggest determining at least one current value of a generator mechanical power input upon energization of an electrical consumer in a motor vehicle as provided in the claimed invention.

The Examiner disagrees since Rogers sets forth the increasing and decreasing of the input current to the alternator. Therefore, Rogers suggests, under 35 USC 103, that the current is monitored, and thus determined, in order to know if the current has been, in fact, increased or decreased.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. The Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
